

BARBARA ASTMAN FOR JONATHAN + OLIVIA silk scarf, $295, jonathanandolivia.com

TORONTO

FIT TO PRINT

Known for her pioneering mix of new media and photography, Rochester-born, Toronto-based artist Barbara Astman is now blazing new terrain in fashion. In collaboration with Jonathan + Olivia, Astman is reprinting images from her Newspaper Series (2007)—in which articles are manipulated to look like DNA strands—onto silk scarves. But it wasn't just a matter of cut and paste. "I wanted to be aware of where the image would fall on the body," Astman says. "This is a very different way of thinking about the images." Extra, extra: Only 40 scarves (in four different patterns) will be available, so act fast before it's a wrap. 49 Ossington Ave.

LAND OF PLENTY

A staple among laid-back West Coast stylists, Plenty ventures beyond its British Columbia borders to open an Alberta outpost this month. Aside from its own in-house brands, the shop also pulls from boho-luxe labels such as MinkPink, RVCA and Penfield. Chinook Centre

MONK & LOU linen/viscose top, $85, and PROPAGANDA cotton/nylon skirt, $65, getplenty.com

ROOTS leather bag, $205

COUNTRY-WIDE

LOCAL ROOTS

In celebration of its 40th anniversary, Roots is reissuing the vegetable-tanned leather bag that helped launch it into the Canadian style stratosphere in the '70s—handcrafted in the same North Toronto factory where all of its leather goods are made. roots.com

CANADIAN CUPPA

Pluck's tea sommelier, Jennifer Commins, forages local ingredients (lavender, grape skins, honey), then uses her spoils to concoct heady blends in her solar-powered lab. They're already the leaves of choice for top restos such as Nota Bene and Soho House, where you can try super-fragrant lavender green tea (the main ingredient is harvested in Prince Edward County), among other offerings. Or, commission Commins to craft your very own blend. pluckteas.com

JOE FRESH cotton/wool sweater, $29

FRESH OBSESSED

Just in case buying a new wardrobe while grocery shopping wasn't easy enough, Joe Fresh is launching e-commerce later this month, with 3,000 items on offer and new additions every week. In our (virtual) cart? A charcoal-grey, French bullie—emblazoned sweater from the line's punk-inspired fall collection. joefresh.com
